Report on National Filaria Control Program By NSS Unit of Shri Shivaji Science College, Nagpur

Date:- 24th June 2022

The success of a filaria control program can be measured in different ways, depending on the goals and objectives of the program. However, some key indicators of success for a filaria control program are:

1. Reduction in the prevalence and incidence of filariasis: One of the primary goals of any filaria control program is to reduce the number of people infected with the disease. A successful program should be able to achieve a significant reduction in both the prevalence and incidence of filariasis in the target population.
2. Improvement in the quality of life of affected individuals: Filaria can cause significant disability, which can impact the quality of life of affected individuals. A successful control program should aim to reduce the burden of filariasis-related disability and improve the overall health and well-being of affected individuals.
3. Sustainability of the program: A successful filaria control program should be sustainable over the long-term. This means that it should be able to continue providing effective interventions to the target population, even after the initial funding and support for the program have ended.
